Peron Flies to Exile; Gov't to Rule by Decree

Official Warnings
Ex-President is Mentally Unbalanced

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Argentine authorities added the expression "mentally unbalanced" today to those of larceny and lust in describing Juan D. Peron, the deposed president who flew Sunday to exile in Paraguay.

Peron climbed into a Paraguayan amphibian plane, took one last look at the country he dominated for 12 years and departed. He had spent the last 13 days in Argentina in virtual imprisonment aboard an ancient gunboat.

Peron's plane, escorted by two fighters of the Argentine air force, landed at the Paraguayan capital city of Asuncion at 5:40 p. m. on the third air journey of his life—he has had a terror of flying since 1946 when a plane in which he was traveling to Cordoba lost a propeller.

Official Issues Warning
The "strongman" was permitted to depart despite a warning from Rear Adm. Alberto Teissaire, Peron's vice president, that the former president was a mentally unbalanced man who would cause "serious trouble" for the regime of Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi if allowed to leave the country.

Political sources quoted Teissaire as saying the president appeared increasingly unbalanced because of his increasing preoccupation with sports and teenage girls and that his military aides ran the government to an increasing extent while Peron chased golf balls and high school girls.

The government was still deliberately blasting the myth that Peron was Argentina's No. 1 worker. In recent days there have been stories of huge sums of money sent abroad, of a 16-year-old mistress, and of wild parties at a suburban residence.

To Govern By Decree
An official government announcement meanwhile said the provisional government would henceforth govern by decree.

The revolutionary government headed by Lonardi dissolved the Peronist-dominated Congress shortly after it assumed power. It said in a statement that because legislative functions must be carried out, the government will rule by decree until general elections are held.

The government ordered all judges and judiciary officials to consider themselves as temporary officials. It also implied that Peron packed the courts from the Supreme Court on down when it said the government will "study the situation of all judges and officials to achieve a completely independent judiciary body."

Supreme Court Opens 165th Year; Faces Decisions On Anti-Subversive Laws

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court opened its 165th year in somber dignity today facing an array of cases challenging the nation's anti-subversive laws.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and the eight associates stepped from behind a dark red curtain and took their places at a gleaming mahogany bench.

A hushed, overflow crowd of top government officials, dignitaries, and tourists jammed the lofty, marble courtroom when the black-robed justices filed to their places on the bench.

Opening day of the nine-month term is devoted to the formality of admitting some 100 lawyers to practice before the high tribunal. After the chief ceremony, the justices return to their offices to work on a backlog of more than 700 cases piled up during the summer recess.

Segregation Not Faced
For the first time in three years, the justices do not face the weighty problem of segregation in public schools.

But the forthcoming term poses issues almost as crucial. The foremost is the ever-recurring problem of how far the government can move against Communists in this country and still stay within constitutional bounds.

The most serious threat so far to the nation's anti-subversive laws is the Community Party's all-out attack on the 1950 Internal Security Act. The court's decision later this term probably will decide the future of the party in this country and help to shape the government's attempts to regulate the party's operations.

The law—which was vetoed by former President Truman—is the first designed to clamp down on the party as a whole rather than on individual members. It requires the Communist Party to register as Moscow-controlled, bare its membership rolls and submit to other restrictions.

Many Important Cases
Other important cases up for decisions are the biggest anti-trust case in history—the government's charge that the giant General Motors and DuPont Corporations are illegally interlocked; a test of the constitutionality of the 1950 Internal Security Code of Military Justice which permits the military to try veterans in certain cases; the validity of state anti-subversive laws; appeals of big-time racketeers Joe Adonis and Frank Costello from perjury and income tax evasion convictions respectively; segregation in state parks; blood tests for drunk drivers; the death sentence of Carl Chessman, California convict and best-selling author; and the new law forcing witnesses in espionage cases to testify in exchange for immunity from prosecution.

Paris Told Soviet
PARIS (UP)—France told Soviet Russia formally today that Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay have postponed their visit to Moscow because of the position taken by Russia on the Algerian vote in the United Nations.

Soviet Attache Alexander Anikine was called to the Foreign Office at midday and was received by Pinay.

Informed sources said the foreign minister informed Anikine that he and Premier Faure would postpone, but not cancel, their plans to visit Moscow.

Pinay bluntly informed the Soviet attache that the atmosphere in France was not favorable for a trip to Moscow at this time in view of "recent events" in the United Nations.

The Soviet bloc voted to place the Algerian question on the U. N. General Assembly agenda last Saturday. This was an explosive decision which led to France's walk-out from the assembly and the recall of its permanent delegation from U. N. headquarters in New York.

The postponement of the proposed trip which was scheduled for later this month, came as internal political troubles and new violence in North Africa threw the already complicated French political situation into further confusion.

Faure and Pinay hoped to sand-wich the good will visit to Moscow between the reopening of the French National Assembly Tuesday and the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Geneva starting Oct. 27.

France was angry because the Soviet Union joined the nations which voted in favor of United Nations debate on Algeria. This was the fuse which touched off the whole series of crises.

Humorist is Guest Speaker To Dinner Club
Samuel H. Ramsay, one of the country's top humorists who believes humor has a definite place in our everyday affairs and makes for happier living and longer lives, was guest speaker Saturday night at the Southern Illinois Dinner Club meeting.

The meeting, held at the Kurto country club, was the first in the fall and winter series by the Dinner club and members were highly entertained by the talk of the humorist, much of it in dialects from various countries.

President Hudson Mugge announced the next meeting will be held Thursday night, Oct. 27, at which time Congressman James E. Van Zandt, one of the world's foremost authorities on atomic energy, will be the guest speaker.

Mugge also announced the club had several openings for new members who may join now and gain the benefits of the meetings to be held before the first of the year.

He was the father of Mrs. Hubert Vickery of Equality and of Mrs. John Huffstutler of Dixon, Ill.

Other survivors include his wife, Hester, and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Sauls, Ridgway, and Mrs. Andrew Klaffer, Eldorado.

The funeral will be at the Church of God where his death occurred at a time to be announced later.

Autos Collide
Two cars collided at the gravel road intersection near the Willis Reed home a mile south of Route 45 Saturday, the sheriff's office reported today. The cars were driven by Logan Furlong, 50, of Carrier Mills Route 2 and Ivy L. Riley, 56, of Harrisburg Route 2. The vehicles were damaged but there were no injuries.

Yankees Even Play in Series With 5-1 Win

Whitey Ford Hurls Four Hitter; Skowron Hits 3-Run Homer

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Yankees, scoring all their runs in a wild first inning, evened the World Series at three games each today, when they defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Whitey Ford.

Powered by a three-run homer by Bill Skowron after the Dodgers opened the gates with two fielding lapses by Junior Gilliam and the wildness of starting pitcher Karl Spooner, the Yankees gave their star southpaw all the runs he needed in their first time at bat and sent the series into the seventh and deciding game Tuesday.

In that big one, it will be two southpaws starting for the clubs, with Tommy Byrne, who won the second game of the series, going against Johnny Podres, who won the third game for Brooklyn.

Ford was brilliant as he won his second series start. He had taken the first game 6-5, with ninth inning relief help from Bob Grim, but today he went all the way and gave up only four singles to the right-handed power-packed Dodgers.

Play-by-play follows:
Dodgers First: Gilliam lined to Howard. Reese was called out on strikes. Snider struck out, swinging at a low pitch.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees First: Rizzuto walked on a high pitch. Newcombe started to warm up for Brooklyn. Martin struck out on a hit and run play and Rizzuto stole second when Gilliam was slow covering the bag. McDougald walked. Meyer also began to warm up for Brooklyn. Berra's grounder just eluded Gilliam for a single, scoring Rizzuto and sending McDougald to third. Bauer hit a single to left scoring McDougald. Berra stopping at second. Skowron hit a three-run homer into the lower rightfield stands, scoring Berra and Bauer ahead of him and making it 5-0 in favor of the Yankees. Meyer, a right-hander, came in to pitch for Brooklyn. Meyer failed to cover first on a tap to Hodges and Cerv was safe for an infield hit. Howard was called out on strikes. Ford flied to Amoros.

Yankees Second: Rizzuto popped to Robinson who took the ball at the pitching mound as Meyer stepped out of his way. Martin struck out for the second time. McDougald beamed at Umpire Ballanfant on a called strike that made the count two and two. Reese then took McDougald's pop fly just over the foul line.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

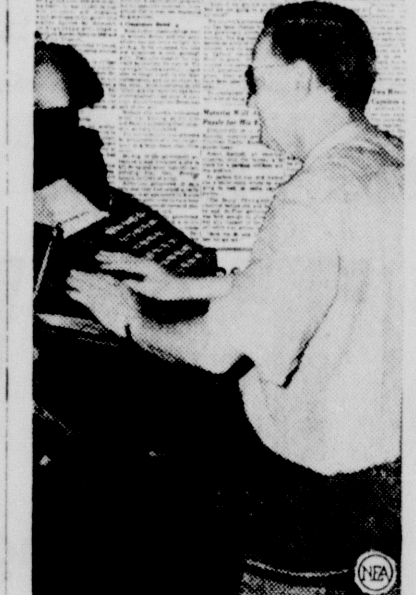

Dodgers Third: Ford made a lunging grab of a sharp bouncer.

Gov't Operating Without Any Disputes, Jealousies, Nixon Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon has assured the nation that the government is operating in President Eisenhower's illness without "internal disputes and jealousies."

In an impromptu news conference held on the lawn of his home Sunday, the vice president said "every official of government has only one goal in mind, and that is to see that the government runs in a way just as close as possible to the way we think the President would want it run under these circumstances."

Since the President's illness, Nixon said, there have been none of the "internal disputes and jealousies" that usually mark "similar occurrences in American history."

He apparently referred to the administrations of Presidents Woodrow Wilson and James A. Garfield. Both presidents were seriously ill during long periods in the White House and were unable to discharge the duties of office.

The only known issue to come to a head since Mr. Eisenhower suffered a heart attack concerned the administration's hopes of cutting defense spending enough to balance the budget.

This question was apparently settled last week by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson when he reported that military spending this year could not be cut below $34,500,000,000. Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey issued a statement accepting Wilson's verdict.

Nixon told reporters that the affairs of government "are going smoothly and business has been carried on without delay or interruption."

About 5 p. m. Wednesday he fell from the ladder, landing on his head and shoulder onto the concrete floor inside the building. The fall was about 10 feet, the coroner said. He was taken unconscious to the Harrisburg hospital.

Mr. Harner is survived by his wife, Lois, and three children, Mrs. Rev. Wallace of Harrisburg Route 3, and Allie and Nolen Harner at home.

Funeral services were held today at 2 p. m. at Spring Valley church south of Harrisburg. Rev. Henry Barger of Golconda officiated and burial was in the church cemetery.

Guy Barrett, 69, Of West End Dies

Guy Barrett, 69, resident of West End, died in the Franklin hospital in Benton last night.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Ebenezer church west of Rileyville. Rev. Silas Blackard of Norris City will officiate, assisted by Rev. Clifford Sullivan of West End, and interment will be in the church cemetery.

Mr. Barrett was a member of Villa Grove Masonic lodge No. 885, and rites will be performed at the funeral by Galatia Masonic lodge No. 684.

He is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Noble Barrett, Thompsonville; RFD, Mrs. Floyd Gill, West End; Mrs. Harry Latrop, Quincy; and Mrs. Harrison Pemberton, Pontiac, Mich.

The body lies in state at the Courtney funeral home in Galatia.

Doctor Who Became Father at Age 93, Breaks Hip at 94

Girl Burns to Death in Auto

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (UP)—A 17-year-old girl's car was smashed like a sandwich between two other autos Sunday night, sparking a fire that burned her to death.

Corine Carey's car stalled because of engine trouble and two youths driving from the opposite direction stopped to help her. They parked their car facing the Danvers, Ill., girl's auto and focused their headlights on its engine while they tried to repair it.

At that moment a third car, driven by Delbert Reed of Danvers, smashed into the rear of Miss Carey's vehicle. It was squashed between the two cars and burst into flames. Reed was hospitalized with serious burns.

Kerr to Propose Increase in Tax Exemptions

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Robert S. Kerr said today he will propose an individual income tax cut next year based on an increase in personal exemptions.

The Oklahoma Democrat, a member of the tax-writing finance committee, said he is confident that booming tax revenues will permit a balanced budget in the current fiscal year.

But even if the budget is not balanced, he said, "a tax cut is going to be mighty hard to head off."

Kerr's statement reflects the view of many key congressmen that an election-conscious Congress will deliver the American people a tax cut next year.

Kerr's tax-cut proposal is to increase the allowable exemptions from the present $600 per dependent to $700 in the first year and $800 in the second year.

The effect of the Kerr proposal in the first year would be to take some five million taxpayers off the tax-paying rolls. For the individual, a person with about a $6,400 income would save at least $20 for himself an each dependent.

A counter-proposal offered by some Republicans is to make a straight across-the-board tax cut on a percentage basis. Kerr said he is opposed to such a proposal on the grounds it would give the most relief to those in the upper income brackets.

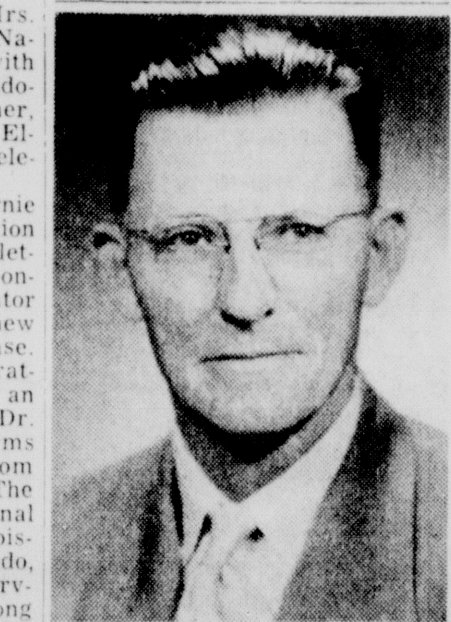

To Build New Floral Hall at Fairgrounds

The Saline County Agricultural association, which operates the annual Saline county fair, has torn down the old floral hall and will build a new one.

The old building, long a landmark and visited by thousands over its half-century of existence, was razed because of its condition.

In its place will be a new building, immediately east of the grandstand. It will be made of concrete blocks with cement floor and will be of 24 by 40 feet dimensions.

Floral hall was built when the agricultural fairs were resumed fifty years ago. Fairs had been held earlier but there was an interlude of a few years when there were no fairs.

RETURNS TO TEACHING. Guy DeNeal, veteran Saline county school teacher, has returned to the teaching ranks as a member of the Equality high school faculty after four years' retirement.

Mr. DeNeal joined the Equality high school staff over a week ago and teaches classes in biology, algebra, general science and mathematics. Four years' ago, after 31 years' teaching, Mr. DeNeal resigned as principal at the Raleigh grade school and announced his retirement. In commenting about returning to the teaching profession, Mr. DeNeal said "There is a shortage of teachers and when the members of the Equality high school board of education contacted me I felt it was my duty to accept the position. And I am happy to be back in school work, I like to teach."

Say President Rested After Fatigue Report

Mr. Eisenhower Subjected to Thorough Exam

DENVER (UP)—President Eisenhower was reported by his physicians to feel "rested and refreshed" today in contrast to their bulletin Sunday night that he was suffering from fatigue.

The attending doctors at Fitzsimons Army Hospital where Mr. Eisenhower is a patient were alert to changes in his condition, but their mid-morning report allayed anxiety in the White House staff that the President may have taken a bad turn during the night.

The White House shortly after 10 a. m. MST (11 a. m. CST) disclosed that Mr. Eisenhower was subjected to a thorough medical examination at 4:25 a. m. MST today.

He was examined again after he awoke at 7:10 a. m. in the realization that any word on Mr. Eisenhower's condition could have a mercurial effect around the world, the doctors took their time in releasing the news of the President's mid-morning condition.

Test of Bulletin

In behalf of Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the White House physician, and Byron E. Pollock, the heart specialist at Fitzsimons, the White House reported:

"The President slept soundly from 8:45 p. m. last night to 7:10 this morning with the exception of a half hour from 4:25 to 4:55 a. m."

"At that time a medical examination showed his temperature, pulse and blood pressure to be normal."

"When he awoke this morning the President felt rested and refreshed. His morning examination showed no changes to indicate complications and his condition remains satisfactory."

"His temperature, pulse and blood pressure remain normal. His cardiogram continues to show slow, progressive evolution."

Mr. Eisenhower, who started his sleep Sunday night under the sedative effects of three-quarters of a grain of secenal, ate a breakfast of cantaloupe and egg, two strips of beef bacon, a slice of whole wheat toast and a glass of skimmed milk.

Tiredness Not Unusual

Mrs. Eisenhower was permitted by the doctors to visit with the President for about 15 minutes as he ate breakfast.

Since Mr. Eisenhower suffered a coronary thrombosis here on Sept. 24, the medical bulletins from his bedside had been progressively optimistic. But Sunday night, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced that the President was feeling "a little tired" and not doing as well as indicated in prior announcements.

After the morning examination and cardiogram, the tension among the White House staff eased.

Hagerty as a news briefing which started shortly before 10 a. m. explained that the physicians told him this morning "that tiredness is not unusual in these cases."

Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, the world famed heart specialist who flew here a week ago when Mr. Eisenhower first became ill, said he had talked by telephone from Boston at 4 a. m. CST today with the doctors attending Mr. Eisenhower at Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

White, who earlier had planned to come here this weekend for another look at the President, did not plan to leave any earlier for Denver despite the new development. He said that the doctors at Fitzsimons reported when he talked with them this morning that Mr. Eisenhower's temperature remained down, as it has since shortly after he was hospitalized, and that his general condition was favorable.

He was the brother of Mrs. Arthur Williams and Jake Wood, both of New Haven.

Funeral services were held today at 2 p. m. at the Green Tabernacle in New Haven. Burial was in Union Ridge cemetery.

Your Right to KNOW

Editorial By Bruce Bissat
Many Americans wonder from time to time what "freedom of the press" has to do with them. They may even grow faintly weary of hearing this cry go up, imagining perhaps that it is a plea of special privilege.

In truth, of course, the cry is uttered for everyone. The newspaper, more than any medium, is the great avenue between government and the people in a democracy.

The reporters who question and badger and probe in their search for information are the people's representatives, no less than the men who make laws in the halls of Congress.

They are the means by which the citizen keeps his foot in the government's door, which he must do if he is to have the knowledge he needs to judge how well he is being governed.

There is no better way to celebrate National Newspaper Week than to offer tribute to the publishers who are fighting to keep that foot in the door. Their campaign against the suppression of news merits the fullest support.

World War II, with its legitimate excuse of security considerations, lent great impetus to a growing tendency in government to prevent the public from learning matters of vital concern to them.

The Korean war, and the great Cold War, with their heavy defense and security requirements, prolonged the excuse. The trend toward secrecy in government has occasionally reached alarming proportions.

The most dangerous aspect of it is that politicians always eager to protect their skins have seen in the great "security" clamor an unparalleled opportunity to shut the public off from information they should have. They have withheld news that would not in fact aid a potential enemy but simply prove inconvenient and embarrassing to the officials affected.

Government is in business to serve the people. The officials who are its caretakers at any given time have no right to conceal their operations from the citizenry by bald censorship or any other devices.

Invisible government and democracy are at opposite poles. The publishers, acting for the whole people, understand this. Let us hope they can convince all our public servants that this is so.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Nixon Backers Phoned Brownell In Spain To Make Him Acting President: Dewey Forces Moved To Block Nixon's Ambitions: Old Taft Forces Move To Block Dewey.

WASHINGTON — Here is some of the vitally important backstage play which took place immediately after the President was stricken in Denver. Behind it was jockeying for position to take over the reins of government and be in the favored spot for the lightning to strike in '56.

It indicates a probable do-or-die battle between the forces of Tom Dewey and the forces of Dick Nixon—with the old friends of Bob Taft ready to pitch in if necessary.

The young man who did the chief jockeying was the same young man who, a freshman senator, relatively unknown, got himself picked at Chicago in 1952 for No. 2 spot on the Eisenhower ticket.

In Washington the night of September 24, just after the news came that President Eisenhower was taken to the hospital with a heart attack, Vice President Nixon went to the home of his intimate friend, William Rogers, at 7007 Glenbrook Road in near-by Maryland.

This was in the dark hours when the President was so sick he was blinded in both eyes and when initial reports looked much more pessimistic than later materialized.

Rogers is deputy attorney general, and with Herbert Brownell then absent in Europe, Rogers was acting attorney general of the United States. He had also traveled with Nixon all during the 1952 political campaign, helped him prepare the famous television speech which recouped his political fortunes after the $18,000 personal expense fund disclosure.

4 A. M. HUDDLE
The vice president went there not primarily to get away from phone calls as he told the press, but to ask Rogers to make a legal ruling that he, as vice president, could take over the powers of the President during his illness. The two discussed the question until 4 a. m.

For a time, Secretary of State Dulles sat with them. Rogers, as acting attorney general, at first was inclined to give Nixon the ruling he wanted, to take over the powers of the President.

However, J. Lee Rankin, assistant attorney general in charge of the office of legal opinions, was skeptical. He was the man who would have to draft the opinion. And having in mind the historic controversies which took place during the illness of Woodrow Wilson and President Garfield regarding the delegation of presidential authority, he suggested they telephone Attorney General Brownell, then in Spain with his old friend, ex-Gov. Tom Dewey. Rankin and Rogers had some difficulty getting Brownell on the Trans-Atlantic telephone but finally did so, and found him extremely loath to give a ruling.

By this time, friends of ex-Governor Dewey had begun to wake up to the power Nixon would have during the months the President was recuperating if he occupied the White House. He could not only build potent public support, but he could hand out patronage. The job of acting president of the United States would be a powerful start toward getting the nomination in 1956.

DEWEY FORCES OPERATE
So the Dewey forces started operating.

Not only did Brownell, Dewey's 1948 campaign manager, who was with Tom in Spain when the President was stricken, say no to Nixon's request for a ruling, but he also told his deputy, Bill Rogers, not to discuss the matter of a ruling with anyone. Furthermore he told Rogers to give this message to other members of the cabinet.

Simultaneously, Sherman Adams, then enjoying a junket in Europe, was rushed back to Washington on the private military plane of Gen. Al Gruenther.

Next day a meeting was held in the office of Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, most potent force in the cabinet today, at which Brownell's position was clinched—namely, that there would be no legal ruling and no necessity of Mr. Nixon's serving as acting president.

The meeting was held in Humphrey's office, not Nixon's. The vice president politely deferred to the secretary of the treasury. There were no arguments and no animosities.

Below the surface, however, there was and continues to be a strong determination by the friends of the Europe-traveling

Mr. Dewey to see that young Mr. Nixon does not chisel out for himself a favored place in the political sun while the President is sick.

THE STOP-DEWEY MOVE

Word has gone out to all cabinet officers from Republican national chairman Len Hall that there is to be no speculation about Republican election plans for 1956. He wants no one talking to the press—and this includes Republican leaders in Congress.

The more conversation there is about who is going to run and who is not going to run, Hall says, the chance the Republican party has of winning. That was why he issued the most ironic headline of the week: "Republican plans unchanged."

Privately, however, the long-distance telephone lines have been jangling between top Republicans all over the country, and a stop-Dewey movement among the old Taftites is already under way.

Already Congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio, one of Taft's campaign managers, has promised that the Ohio delegates in 1956 will be lined up for Ohio's favorite son, Sen. John Bricker, in order to block Dewey. Already a move is on by the Senator Jenner forces in Indiana to try to line up the Indiana GOP against Dewey.

Already Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire has talked with Sen. Bill Knowland of California about mutual plans; while in Pennsylvania the Grundy forces think they can outmaneuver Sen. Jim Duff to stop Dewey.

The stop-Dewey movement may of course be premature. But animosity toward him by the Taft wing of the GOP is so great that they want to take no chances. They remember the fact that in Chicago in 1952 it was the brains and political know-how of Tom Dewey that really won like the nomination. They recall how Eisenhower, a babe-in-the-woods regarding political conventions, kept saying: "What do we do next, Tom?"

They also remember the surprise speech Eisenhower made at the New York Heart Association dinner at the Waldorf in the winter of 1953 in which he expressed the view that the most useful days of Tom Dewey were still to come.

Taft leaders have always had a sneaking suspicion that Eisenhower told Dewey he would be a one-term president and promised to throw his own personal weight and charm behind Tom. They are waiting now to see whether that promise, if made, will be kept.

Eldorado Deacony of Catholic Women Holds Fall Meeting at Oney
The Fall meeting of the Eldorado Deacony of Catholic Women opened with Holy Mass at 9 a. m., Wednesday at St. Joseph's church, Oney, with Rev. George P. Lally, celebrant.

Registration at the American Legion hall immediately afterwards disclosed an attendance of two hundred women and eleven visiting priests.

The morning session was opened with prayer to Our Lady of Good Counsel by Rev. John Terpek, moderator.

Mrs. Dave Evans, Harrisburg, has served as president of the Deacony for the past two years and Mrs. Charles Myrna of Eldorado as secretary.

New officers were elected and installed. Mrs. Everett Lyons of St. Francisville was elected president and Mrs. Louis Jordan of Lawrenceville, secretary.

An address entitled "The School and the Parish" was given by Rev. Arthur Goldammer, superintendent of Assumption high school, East St. Louis, wherein he stressed the necessity of parents guiding and helping children to help themselves to act as good Christians and good citizens at all times, not assuming a dual personality (a good one at home, church and school and an indifferent or bad one among their own group).

He advised parents and educators to insist on religious training for their children as well as academic and athletic training. He pointed out that six or six and a half hours, five days a week are the average hours spent in school and asked what is being done about the rest of the time? It was his opinion that a good Christian athletic coach would work wonders with any student or school.

Following a luncheon at noon a movie was shown, entitled "Life at St. Henry's," depicting the ordinary life as lived by a student at St. Henry's college in Belleville.

Panel discussions followed: School and Home by Mrs. Enoch Hahn, third grade teacher at St. Joseph's school and Sister Mary Mark, eighth grade teacher, Mrs. Hahn urged patience with retarded children and suggested the use of a typewriter for the child who has difficulty in reading, permitting them to hunt and peck out words that will look more like printed newspaper and books than his own hand writing. She pointed out that Television is a help, if suitable programs are selected by the parents, as the child will want to read the printed matter.

"Spiritual Development in the Home of the Child" by Mrs. Marie McCormick assisted by Mrs. N. E. Harold. Mrs. Marie McCormick's motto was "More praying, more thinking, more doing." She requested a reawakening and cultivation of the glorious traditions of the Christian family, a re-introduction in the home of religious practices, especially daily family rosary, grace before and after meals or recitation of the Angelus, enthronement of the Sacred Heart of Jesus in the home (night adoration), promotion of spiritual activities such as daily attendance at Mass, group Communion and attendance at Holy Hour's devotion, promotion of indoor and outdoor shrines and Christmas cribs. Religious articles were also on hand to promote and aid private and public devotion.

"Catholic Charities and Diocesan Collections" by Mrs. Gene Hahn assisted by Mrs. Hermine Fehrenbacher. Mrs. Hahn explained the Peach Bond under the Adopt-a-family program whereby each five dollar bond provides a food package to a needy family overseas, West Europe, Near East, Hong Kong, Japan, and Korea. She pointed out the need for new garments for the store rooms of His Holiness in Vatican City, a particular need for girls' white Communion dresses.

Two were made according to regulation requirements by Mrs. Marie McCormick and Mrs. Lorraine Riggs and displayed. A pledge of at least one dress was obtained from each parish in the Deacony.

Mrs. Hahn also pointed out the advisability of having a foreign exchange student in the home, where customs and traditions can be exchanged as well as understanding and good will created between countries.

"Library and Literature" by Mrs. J. J. Klein, who advised parents to place good literature in a convenient and conspicuous place in the home, something easy to read and for all age groups.

"Retreats for Parents as Examples to their Children" by Mrs. Arthur Cole, Mrs. Eugene Bridwell and Mrs. Ray Yelch. Mrs. Cole pointed out the value of retreating from the world for 24 hours in silence, meditation prayer and religious lectures, uniting with God and fortifying oneself for the problems and pleasures ahead.

It was announced that the Day of Recollection will be April 26 at Flora. The Spring meeting will be at Elizabethtown (date pending).

All were especially urged to attend the Diocesan convention Oct. 12 at Chester, at which time His Excellency Bishop Albert R. Zuroweste, D. D. Bishop of Belleville, will be in attendance.

The meeting was closed with benediction by Rev. Father G. P. Lally in the absence of Very Rev. W. E. Hanagan who was attending retreat.

Eddie Seright, son of Mrs. Catherine Seright, was at home over the week-end from the James Millikan university in Decatur where he is a freshman. He was accompanied by a friend, Nick Evangelista, Chicago, who is also a freshman at Millikan. Both are pledges at Tau Cappa Epsilon fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huffman and son, Raymond, of Springfield, Ohio, who were called to Harrisburg by the death and funeral of Mr. Huffman's sister, Mrs. Jennie Brown, returned home early Friday morning.

Formosa's population of 8,500, 400 almost matches that of Australia, a continent more than 200 times as large, says the National Geographic Society.

The club presented Mrs. Smith with a beautiful planter in appreciation of her thoughtfulness and love for her mother's friends.

Present were Mrs. George (Delia) Bond, Mrs. G. H. (Lollie) Dorris, Mrs. Louie (Blanche) Thompson, Mrs. George (Ella) Sleppey, Mrs. Fanny Sheeley, Mrs. John (Alta) Koch, Mrs. Bert (Sophia) Barger, Mrs. J. W. (Bertha) Baker, and Mrs. Harry (Nancy) Rude.

Mrs. Eisenhower To Curtail Chats With President

DENVER — Mrs. Eisenhower will curtail her short visits at the bedside of her husband until the President's condition is improved.

Mrs. Eisenhower's decision to "sharply curtail" her short chats with the President was made after it was learned that Mr. Eisenhower was "a little tired" Sunday night.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who has been in the President's four-room suite in Fitzsimons Army Hospital since his coronary thrombosis last week-end, made it quite clear that she will stay there until the end of his critical two-week period. And, she further indicated she would remain in the suite throughout the month-long period he is expected to be there.

Stratton Awaits Report from State Police Sup't

CHICAGO — Gov. William G. Stratton said today he would await a personal accounting from Phil M. Brown, superintendent of state police, on a report that he told his men last winter to "tolerate" 1,000 pound violations of the truck weight law.

The Chicago Sun-Times said in a story today that Brown's order was delivered verbally by his assistant, William H. Morris, at a meeting in Springfield last Feb. 23.

Brown's immediate superior, State Safety Director Joseph D. Bibb, said Brown "didn't clear the order with me." He said he would send a report of the incident to Stratton, since Brown was an appointee of the governor.

No Draft of Men Over 36 In Future Wars Unless U. S. Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey says men 36 and over will not be drafted in any future war unless the United States is attacked at home.

Hershey said men 26-to-36 would be used "only selectively" and that men under 26 would be the only group "sure" to see military service.

In a television interview Sunday Hershey said he does not believe current world problems are going to be resolved "too soon." Until that time comes, he said, the United States must keep up its guard.

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

Illustrated by M.E.A. Copyright 1954, 1955 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Random House.

XXXII

In those days they didn't know what a dining car was. On the S. P.'s run west out of Benson your last chance to eat short of daylight was Tucson, where the train held up for a full hour while passengers and crew stocked up on vittles.

Wyatt and Joe Evans stood guard outside the depot hash house while Virg ate.

Presently, the engineer and the fireman walked across the switch siding and crawled up into the cab. Two short toots of the whistle broke the growing quiet.

Preparing to swing down to the depot platform, Wyatt took a last look around. Suddenly, he saw something.

The dull bounce of lamplight off of worn metal. Smoke-blued, slender, scabbard-worn metal. Gun barrels! Two, three—no, four of them!

The old shotgun started for his shoulder, automatic as the jump of cheekflashes to a slap in the face. But in the dark he had forgotten the pipe of the car platform's guard rail. The barrels glanced off the rusted metal, ringing the night with the sound of steel on iron—and the four shadows melted away from the flatcars.

He leaped over the handrail, hitting the depot platform on the crouching run. A figure loomed in the darkness. It was only a halfbreed peon, scuttling around the corner of the station.

It was later discovered this "peon" was the fourth member of the rustler bunch that was in Tucson to get Wyatt and his wounded brother. He was dressed as an Indian laborer though he was a white man.

But if Wyatt had missed the minnow, he landed the lunker. He jumped him halfway down toward No. 9's chuffing engine, ran him toward the head of the train, shouting at him to halt. He was not 10 feet behind him when he cut across the tracks, full into the beam of the engine's headlamp. "One more step and you get it in the back!" he yelled at him, and grounded the shotgun's butt on his hip with the warning. The fugitive stopped dead, whirled defiantly, stood at bay and blinking in the glare of the oily light. It was Frank Stilwell.

When he was four feet from Wyatt, still squinting to see who it was, he lunged for the barrels, catching them by the muzzle ends jumping his whole strength into forcing them upwards. The movement brought him face-close to Wyatt.

It has been many times remarked how singular-alike was Wyatt to his dead younger brother. It must have been that, coupled with the bad, smoky light of the headlamp, for there is no other explanation for the strange last word that Frank Stilwell spoke.

"Morg . . ."

His only answer was the twisting heave of Wyatt's shoulders, forcing the shotgun's muzzle down and into his belly, just under the heart.

Three American Soldiers Die in Auto Crash on Okinawa

NAGO, Okinawa (AP) — The Army announced today that three American soldiers were killed Sunday when their car crashed through a railing and plunged 20 feet into the China Sea.

A fourth soldier was seriously injured. The Army said the four enlisted men were from the second battalion of the 75th Regimental Combat Team. They were not identified pending notification of their families.

Parking meters first were installed in six American cities in 1935. Now they are in operation in more than 1575 U. S. cities.

—he was still Ike Clanton.

The Pima sheriff had dropped around to the Tucson telegraph office and suggested to the operator that any messages going through to Johnny Behan be also shown to the deputy U. S. marshal in Tombstone, as a matter of routine law enforcement co-operation. He hadn't said to show it to Wyatt first. He knew who was night operator in Tombstone.

All that remained was for a man to recall who had got to be Pima County Sheriff since riding shotgun for Wyatt and Wells Fargo back in '81. When he'd done that he knew where his friend was, and who he was.

He was in Tucson and his name was Bob Paul.

Wyatt's mind twisted and turned with every pull of his big hand on the straw-yellow mustache. When hand and mind had made their last turn and final twist, he knew what he had to do.

This was the warrant Behan had been waiting for.

There would be no beating this one.

Legion Divides Doubleheader

Romonosky Loses One-Hit, 2-0, Tilt to Lefty Seats

The Harrisburg Legion fared only so-so in their doubleheader at the town park diamond Sunday afternoon as they eked out a 7 to 6 win over the Harrisburg Stars and then lost 2 to 0 to the Carterville Stars.

"Yonie" Romonosky hurling for the Legion in the Carterville game was opposed by "Lefty" Gene Seats who spent part of the past season with Waterloo, Iowa, in the Three I league. Romonosky spent the past season with the Houston Buffs and is going to Mexico for the winter season with Guadalajara of the Mexican league.

In the first game the Legion jumped off to a big lead as Odle walked and Williams singled and Bob Dallas hit a tremendous home run over the two trees deep in center field for three markers. Walks to Karnes and Shewmake and singles by Rod Smith and Bill McNew netted the Stars a pair of runs in the fourth and the Legion came on in the fifth to rack up three more runs as Wallace and Williams walked and rode home on Griffiths' two base hit. Griffiths took third on a passed ball and then stole home with the third run of the inning. Walks to Nolen and Ziegler and a double by Karnes and single by R. Smith gave the Stars three runs in the fifth also. A walk, an error, a single by Shewmake and a walk to McNew forced in the tying run for the Stars in the seventh and that was the scoring until the ninth when the Legion led with J. Romonosky's pinch single followed by Odle's sacrifice and a single by Williams scoring Romonosky.

Wallace and Stout pitched for the Legion with Romonosky catching. Stout took the win. McNew pitched for the losers with Shewmake doing the receiving.

In the second contest, Romonosky allowed only one hit, a single by Bollinger, but the visitors scored twice in the fourth as a result of a walk, the lone safety and two errors which allowed both unearned tallies. Romonosky whiffed 15 of the visitors while Seats turned back 10 of the Legionnaires via strikes. The locals garnered four hits off Seats, two singles by Odle and singles by Romonosky and Williams. Dick Romonosky again caught all the way for the Legion with Farley doing the back stopping for the victors.

Next Sunday the Legion will meet the Stars at the new baseball field near the fairgrounds if the diamond there is in playing shape by that time. If not, the game will be played at the Park diamond.

Bull Pups Play Eldorado Tonight

People who like their football at bargain basement prices have another opportunity tonight at Taylor Field, where the Bull Pups will play the Eldorado freshman-sophomore team. Game time is seven o'clock.

A couple of weeks ago Harrisburg beat Eldorado, 18-7, on the Eldorado field and the Pups hold a record of two wins and no losses, having also defeated Marion. Coached by Ben Chamness and Jim Beers, the Pups are playing an interesting brand of football this season with lots of speed in the backfield.

Stanky to Manage Minneapolis Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Scrappy Eddie Stanky, fired last season as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was named by the New York Giants today to succeed Bill Rigney as manager of the Giants' Minneapolis farm club.

SIU Upsets Highly Favored Central Michigan

Southern Illinois university's Salukis scored the upset of the year Saturday night by edging past heavily favored Central Michigan, 14-13, in an Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic conference game played at the winners' stadium.

SIU touchdowns were scored in the second and fourth quarters. In the second frame halfback Jack Schneider broke around end and side-stepped along for a beautiful 25-yard scoring effort.

But the play of the night, from an SIU viewpoint, came in the last quarter. Hank Warfield, 183-pound fullback who hails from Evansville, cracked off tackle and raced 72 yards for a TD. He was being overhauled by the Central safety man and barely made scoring territory, falling just inside the end zone as the tackle was made.

Bill Spratt, junior from Salem, split the uprights with two place kicks for the point-after-touchdowns.

Central scored in the first and fourth quarters and a missed try for point following the first TD spelling defeat.

Central, co-champion of the conference in 1954 and considered the league's powerhouse this season, pushed SIU all over the place in the first period and the large crowd on hand settled back, resigned to seeing the home team man-handled.

After marching down field from their own seven to within the shadow of SIU's goal line, Central ran out of gas and lost the ball. On their first play from scrimmage Southern fumbled and Central recovered on about the 15. From there it was quick work for the visiting team to score.

SIU then settled down and played the favored Michigan team to a standstill.

In the second quarter Schneider, Southern halfback, put his team back in the game with a 25-yard scoring run and Spratt kicked the point to give SIU a 7-6 lead. This held up until early in the fourth frame.

Central's Passes Fail

With the ball on the SIU 28, Warfield exploded off tackle, raced through the backfield and continued for 72 yards and a score as the Southern fans went wild. Spratt again kicked the point and Southern led 14-6.

In about a minute the game was real close again as Michigan ran the kickoff to the 50 yard line and connected with a long pass and a TD. The conversion made the score SIU 14, Central Michigan 13 and there remained about nine minutes to play.

Central tried passes as time ticked off, but an alert SIU defense intercepted or knocked down the long heaves and the visitors went down to a stunning defeat.

It was a great victory for the Al Kawaal-coached SIU eleven. In two earlier starts the team lost a 7-0 and 14-13 away from home. Before home folks Saturday night the team played in a manner to which SIU fans haven't been accustomed to see their team perform, but according to all comments after the game it is the manner the fans like.

The victory put SIU at the top of the IAC standings.

Only one other league game was scheduled last weekend, with Illinois Normal and Northern Illinois battling to a 7-7 deadlock.

In non-conference play Eastern Illinois took a 40-0 walloping from Evansville and Michigan Normal tied 0-0 with Baldwin Wallace.

Southern will be idle this week, but resumes conference competition Saturday, Oct. 15, entertaining Eastern.

Maryland, Michigan Lead Nation's Top Grid Teams In Impressive Victories

By United Press
Maryland and Michigan, currently the two top claimants to the national college football crown, emerged as impressive victors today from a weekend that stuck pretty close to form—but they faced mighty different prospects.

For Maryland, rated the nation's No. 1 team and looking it in a 20-6 triumph over Baylor, it looks like a downhill run from here to an unbeaten season—starting with a weak Wake Forest team next Saturday.

But for Michigan, now rated No. 2, things are getting tougher fast—starting with a Saturday clash against seventh-rated Army in what figures to be the top game of the weekend. Michigan showed good staying power in whipping Michigan State, 14-7.

Maryland and Michigan led nine of the nation's 10 top-ranked teams in the victory parade Saturday. Ohio State, ranked No. 10, was the only casualty, bowing to surprising Stanford, 6-0.

Maryland didn't have too much trouble with Baylor as quarterback Frank Tamburello pitched two touchdowns passes and Dave Nusz passed for the other six points. The Terrapins subs probably will see lots of action this week against Wake Forest, a 46-0 loser to West Virginia, and the path ahead holds no rivals that seem as tough as those Maryland already has passed.

Branoff Scored Twice
Tony Branoff ran to both Michigan touchdowns, one of them set up by an interception and the other by a blocked punt. But Army got set for this weekend's big clash with Michigan by crushing a strong Penn State team, 35-6 as converted All-American end Don Hollender passed for one touchdown and quarterback sneaked to another.

Here's how the other teams in the top 10 scored their victories:
Third-ranked Georgia Tech whipped Southern Methodist, 20-7, as Topp Vann scored all three Tech touchdowns; fourth-ranked Oklahoma ran its unbeaten streak to 21 games by downing Pittsburgh, 26-14; fifth-ranked Notre Dame continued unbeaten and unscathed on (10 straight wins under Coach Terry Brennan) by downing Indiana, 20-7.

Connie Mack, 92, Fractures Hip

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. Il-larion I. Gopadze planned to examine the fractured right hip of Connie Mack, 92-year-old former owner and manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, today to decide whether an operation or "something more conservative" would be necessary to mend the injury.

Attendees at Presbyterian Hospital said Mack, who was injured Saturday afternoon in a fall at his Germantown apartment, rested "comfortably" during the night.

Mack, who fell while getting out of bed after his usual afternoon nap, was taken to Chestnut Hill Hospital where X-rays disclosed the fracture. He was removed to Presbyterian Hospital where Dr. Gopadze the Mack family doctor, is staff physician.

Mack, whose full name is Cornelius McGillicuddy, was active in baseball for 71 years and the Athletics' only manager until he retired in favor of Jimmy Dykes in 1951. He was named honorary board chairman of the Kansas City A's after the Mack family sold the team to Arnold Johnson of Chicago, last Nov. 4.

Under Mack's 54-year reign, the Philadelphia Athletics won nine American League pennants and five world championships. The club began to decline during the depression when Mack was forced to sell his top player talent to make expenses. Slumping attendance and poor teams since then resulted in the sale of the franchise.
